More Guests Than Ever Expected This Easter Season

Breaking the cycle of homelessness beginning with a meal

From old habits to new life!
On page 3 see how you helped change someone forever
Dear Caring Friend,

Every day, we touch the hearts of friends and neighbors on Skid Row. But there’s something about Easter that resonates with our guests on an even deeper level. It is their hope for a new life and the promise that they can have it that ignites a yearning — a desire to embrace a new beginning based on faith and the realization that they do matter.

That is why I’m so proud of Los Angeles Mission and the programs and services we offer these lost souls. My pride also extends to you. Without your compassion and support, none of our life-changing programs and services would be possible. Thank you so much for helping us provide meals and care and the message that He is Risen!

Easter’s celebration of new life is the culmination of what we do and why we do it. I hope you will continue to stand with us as we reach out to the many, many people who will turn to us for help this Easter season and throughout the spring. Thank you for helping restore and renew lives.

God bless you,

Herb Smith

Renewing the Spirit Within

You help break the cycle of homelessness by supporting the Anne Douglas Center for Women

Domestic violence. Abuse. Sexual assault. It sounds like the plot of a television crime drama. But it’s not. It’s Tricia’s* life on the streets of Los Angeles. When her beloved grandmother passed away, Tricia was left on her own and vulnerable to the cruelty of others. For years she suffered, trapped in the cycle of homelessness and the helpless position it put her in.

With no way to physically escape, she tried to numb her pain. “I thought drugs and alcohol would solve things, but my problems were still there,” Tricia says. It wasn’t until she met a counselor from the Anne Douglas Center that her life took a turn for the better. “The counselor asked me, ‘Are you sick and tired of being sick and tired?’” Tricia says. “I told her, ‘Yes, I didn’t want that life.’ And I made a conscious decision to stop.”

Tricia sought food, shelter and help at the Center. “The program helped me find myself and learn about God,” Tricia says. As she rebuilds her life, Tricia reflects on Psalm 51:10, “Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me.”

This Easter season, even more women like Tricia need our help. With God’s grace and the support of friends like you, the Anne Douglas Center will continue providing hope for hurting souls.

Another Chance at Life — and Fatherhood

How you helped Dimson reunite with his children

After proudly serving for six years in the United States Navy, Dimson had started a promising career as an ambulance driver. He was grateful for a job where he could continue to help others and support his two young kids. But Dimson fell into a pit of despair after he began experimenting with drugs. He lost his job, his house and his children.

“We see so many people like Dimson who turn to drugs to deal with their hidden pain,” Herb Smith, president of Los Angeles Mission, says. “Fortunately, we were here when Dimson needed us most.”

Alone and homeless, Dimson knew the Mission was a safe place to find a meal. He came to us looking for something to eat, but what he found was another chance at life, thanks to our Urban Training Institute. There, Dimson learned critical life skills while learning how to cope with his trauma.

Today, Dimson is healthy, sober and employed full time. Best of all, he has re-established a relationship with his children.

“Because of your support of Los Angeles Mission, Dimson has been transformed and his children can know their father.”

“Thank you for caring,” Dimson says. “Thank you for helping me be a productive member of society, and thank you for reuniting me with my children.”

Could This Have Been Written by Your Children?

“Dear Mom and Dad,

Throughout my life you have given me so much, but there’s one more thing I need from you. I need you to talk with me about the future.

I know you may be uncomfortable talking about aging or death, but what if something unexpected happens? Losing you will be much more painful if I’m left trying to handle your estate while I’m grieving.

Do you have an up-to-date will? Can we talk about it? I’d like to know what you have planned and why.

I am a part of your legacy, and I want to live my life in honor of God, our family name and the legacy that has made me who I am.”

Could this letter have been written by your adult child? Estate planning can be a simple and powerful way to communicate love and connect with your loved ones on a deeper level. Talking about the future can create certainty, peace and even inspire them to get involved with the values, passions and causes you care about — like the work of Los Angeles Mission.
